BULLPEN BULLETINS

PROFILE: J.M. DeMatta

J.M. DeMatta has been scripting various Spider-Man comics "for a zillion years," as he puts it. J.M.'s first Spidey work came on the late, lamented MARVEL TEAM-UP series, followed by a recent stint on SPECTACULAR SPIDER-MAN. Now J.M. will be the regular writer on AMAZING SPIDER-MAN, in addition to his other monthly assignment, X-FACTOR. We webbed down your friendly neighborhood DeMatta long enough for him to answer a few questions.

Where and when were you born?

I was born in Brooklyn, New York, on December 15, 1953.

How did you break into comics?

I broke in on the DC mystery books — House of Mystery, Weird War Tales — in the late 70's.

Who are some of your creative influences?

In comics, Stan Lee and Jack Kirby. In literature, Dostoevsky, who is my favorite writer of all time. In film, Orson Welles and Frank Capra. In life, Meher Baba.

Which comics have you worked on in the past?

Justice League, Dr. Fate, CAPTAIN AMERICA, DEFENDERS, MOON-SHADOW, BLOOD, GREENBERG THE VAMPIRE, and recently, some Vertigo stuff like Mercy.

Which super-power would you most like to have?

I'd have to say flight. I don't know anyone who wouldn't want to fly. I don't need super strength or anything like that.

Where did you receive your training?

Well, I graduated from Empire State College — which is not to be confused with the fictitious Empire State University that Peter Parker goes to. I was an English and Creative Writing major. I've always done a lot of writing. Before I got into comics, I was a rock-and-roll journalist, doing reviews and articles for magazines like Rolling Stone.

What are your hobbies?

Travel ... music ... playing guitar ... singing ... writing songs. I should add here that I hate the word "hobbies," because it takes something which you could be really passionate about and makes it sound trivial.

What advice would you have for aspiring young comics pros?

Persistence, more than anything else. And the ability to listen to criticism.

What comic character do you most resemble?

Greenberg the Vampire. We look alike. It wasn't planned that way, but he came out looking like me. I guess there was something in my description of Greenberg in the plot that inspired the artist to draw him like me.

What is the most interesting place you have ever been?

Probably India. I've been there six times. It's my spiritual home. I find it to be the most fascinating and spiritually charged place on the planet.

Which monster is the scariest — Frankenstein, Dracula, or Wolfman?

I can discount Frankenstein, because he's too lumbering. Between Dracula and the Wolfman — I've always found vampires to be a little bit scarier, because of the physical defiling.

What would you be doing if you weren't in comics?

Hopefully, I would still be writing. Instead of comics, maybe I would be a novelist or a screenwriter.

What TV shows do you watch on a regular basis?

On a regular basis, only Star Trek: The Next Generation and The Simpsons.

How do you want to be remembered many years from now?

Just as a decent human being. But let's stress that that's many, many years from now!

THE BULL'S EYE BY RICK PARKER

CRAIG'S CONUNDRUM

There's a lot more to this universe than meets the eye. Even when we get the best eyes that science and technology can create — like the Hubble Space Telescope — what is revealed to us is only a tiny fraction of what is really out there.

So what do we actually know about the powers that rule the cosmos?

Precious little, as it turns out. For all our telescopes, space probes, rockets and Voyagers, we have barely even begun to recognize the forces that shape the universe around us. But in our quest to satisfy our curiosity, we keep looking, probing, searching — without having any idea of what we might find.

And that is the crux of the problem! Is the universe a benign place, content to let us ignorantly expand our sphere of influence out from the shores of mother earth?

Or ... is there a chance that the universe is far deadlier than we comprehended — populated by beings such as Thanos, Terrax, Morg, or Tyrant? And, if there is even a remote possibility of that, do we want to be calling attention to ourselves? Because if that is true, we might find planet Earth at the mercy of the Cosmic Powers!

Check out what I'm talking about in the COSMIC POWERS limited series I'm editing, beginning this week.

This couldn't wait 'til the 21st century.

The "X" generation of Mega Man adventures is here.
For the first time on the Super NES.

As his last great creation, Dr. Light developed "X"—the first thinking, decision-making robot. Years later, Dr. Cain modifies his design to make thousands of supposedly "harmless" Reploids. That is until Sigma, the most intelligent Reploid of all, decides to lead the others in eliminating all humans from the planet. Now "X" must hunt down Sigma using his all-new arsenal, including the X-Buster and the awesome Emergency Acceleration System. It's the Mega battle of the next century, found only on the Super NES.

"X" uses his X-Buster to save Zero, the leader of the Maverick Hunters from the evil Vile.

When the robotic amoeba glues "X" to the ground, either he shoots or he's stuck.

"X" destroys an enemy submarine fuel tank and things get extremely explosive.

BATTLES ARE WON WITH BULLETS ■ WARS ARE WON WITH BRAINS ■

The only action game that requires strategy to win. The only strategy game that's hot enough to melt your armor. With the advantages of an advanced 3-D flight simulator, as well as a shrewd and cunning mind, you'll face the most ferocious intergalactic combat yet seen: Mechwarrior, one of the most original games ever developed.

It's the year 3027. Revenge is your motive. A BattleMech is your method. Outmaneuver, outsmart and outfight the Dork Wing Lance. Pursue every lead. Track them to the furthest corners of the galaxy. But ya' gotta be smart. Only a great strategy can ensure victory. Use your missiles, cannons, lasers and jumpjets wisely if you expect to defeat your crafty foes. Your reward? More money to build more powerful 'Mechs, critical to completing your ever more complicated missions.

Perched in the control room of a 60-ton 'Mech, incredible 3-D graphics allow you to command the action.

Use the Practice Mode and Save Game features to jump straight into the action. Whether you choose instant action or the rewards of an entire combat career, it's sure to make you sweat bullets.
